Success Snapshot: How BDA's one-on-one training works

A particular BDA strength is our unique way of helping physicians participate more effectively in the medical coding process. Our training methods reflect keen understanding of what physicians' priorities are and how they prefer to receive information.

As ED physicians are required to take increasingly active roles in value-based documentation, we can help make the learning process more productive. Our efficient one-on-one training and education result in better staff alignment around documentation, coding, and billing processes. And that results in better revenue capture.
